

Guide to Choosing a Medical School

Please download and save this PDF so you can add additional schools and compare them later.

As a doctor, your patients' lives will depend on your confirmation that the information you use is accurate and unbiased. Your career similarly depends upon you asking the right questions, and collecting data cited from a reliable source.

When you do your research, it should come down to nine vital signs. Making the right choice can make all the difference as you work toward a long, fruitful career as a practicing physician.

Factors to Consider	School #1 St. George's University	School #2	School #3	School #4
Graduates matching in residencies of their choice	91% residency rate for eligible non-US graduates in 2019.*
Clinical training opportunities that align with your goals	70+ affiliated hospitals in four countries
Demonstrated success on USMLE	96% first-time pass rate in 2018
Supportive learning environment	Award-winning Department of Educational Services
A Commitment to International Student Success	Students and graduates from 140 countries . Dedicated International Students Office .
Campus community	65+ clubs and organizations
Personalized experience	8:1 student-to-faculty ratio
Accreditation	Accredited by GMDC and CAAM-HP . US DOE deemed SGU accreditations comparable to US accreditation.
Attrition rate	6.1% attrition rate for entering students in the 2017 academic year

*Eligible non-US 2019 graduates who applied for a US postgraduate position obtained one at the time of graduation.